Harry Bosch and LAPD Detective Renee Ballard come together again on the murder case that obsessed Bosch's mentor, the man who trained him---new from #1 New York Times bestselling author Michael Connelly

Back when Harry Bosch was just a rookie homicide detective, he had an inspiring mentor who taught him to take the work personally and light the fire of relentlessness for every case. Now that mentor, J.J. Thompson, is dead, but after his funeral his widow hands Bosch a murder book that Thompson took with him when he left the LAPD 20 years before -- the unsolved killing of a troubled young man in an alley used for drug deals.

Bosch brings the murder book to Renée Ballard and asks her to help him find what about the case lit Thompson's fire all those years ago. That will be their starting point.

The bond between Bosch and Ballard tightens as they become a formidable investigation team. And they soon arrive at a worrying question: Did Thompson steal the murder book to work the case in retirement, or to make sure it never got solved?

RachelW (BamaGal) says

I guess there is not even any pretense anymore that this is going to be about Renee Ballard. This series has now gone 'Ballard and Bosch' all the way. Pity...I love Harry; but I wish Ballard could have had her turn. She was such an interesting character. Perhaps Connelly thought the series would have sold better with Bosch included, and was not willing to let Ballard's series build a fan base.

I'll still happily read it, of course, but disappointed...
