Stranded With The Alien Assassin Marla Therron

In a shocking turn of events, Jayne Mannet ends up stranded with an alien assassin, causing a conflict between her heart and her head.

In Imdali, it has always been about what the eye doesn't see.

To a fast-talking girl from New York, it was never a place Jayne Mannet should have been. Being kidnapped and sold to the highest bidder, Jayne must find a way to escape and make her way back home, all the while trying not to lose her humanity in the process.

But that becomes difficult when one of them responsible for her kidnapping, a mysterious, secretive alien named D'Anil Troga, becomes closer and closer to her in ways that Jayne could have never expected, causing a conflict between her heart and her head.

Adults Only!

Loved it.

I loved this book, it kept my attention from beginning to end. Some thing was always happening. Jayne was sweet and passionate about helping her fellow prisoners, she's not what she appears. D'Anil is also not what he appears to be he's so much more. If you like this type of book you'll love this one.

[ If you start to like a guy because he doesn't rape you, that is setting the bar too low. Although, he did help her to escape. Their sex while drunk before she was sold didn't sit well with me and the sex when they role played as master/slave I skimmed--He still technically owned her. Eww. (hide spoiler)]

This has a cold assassin as the hero. He is not a good guy. He is saturated in apathy.

The heroine is abducted and sold as a slave. I like her a great deal.

The world is pretty well drawn but I never settled into this book.

I never really bought the shift in the hero. There was a lot of action but I needed more romance for this book to work for me.

Good

Again the cover doesn't really match the man in the story. Other than that, it was pretty good. I loved how it ended.
