Good Dog! Bob Balaban

McGrowl and Thomas are taking a trip to see McGrowl's former owner. But their fun adventure becomes a dangerous mission when they learn that the evil duo has devised an intricate plan to trap them!

When McGrowl saves the life of a neighborhood cat, the bionic superdog becomes a celebrity. McGrowl's original owner, the old lady, spots her former pet on TV and invites him over for a visit. So Thomas and McGrowl set off to the lady's house. Then their trip turns into a wild goose chase! The friends encounter many eccentric characters who send them from one weird and wacky location to the next. The mastermind behind it all is the Milton Smudge, who's determined to get McGrowl--no matter what! Thomas and McGrowl manage to escape unharmed, but Smudge vows he'll capture them next time...

In the 4th McGrowl book, their is a boy named Thomas who is great friend to McGrowl. Jonas from The Giver is also a good friend and person. Jonas and Thomas both wanted to help the ones they loved. Jonas wanted to save Gabe from being released. Thomas wanted to help McGrowl find his previous owner so McGrowl could be happy and spend time with her. They did it for different reasons though. Jonas did it to save Gabe and for him to start a new life. Thomas did it for McGrowl so he could be happy and to make McGrowls previous owner happy. I would recommend both of these books to anyone who loves books with friendships. If you want a fun book with an interesting plot, go with McGrowl. If you want a more interesting and mysterious book, go with The Giver. Overall, I liked Jonas more as a good friend because he really wanted to start his life over and give Gabe the best life he could possibly have. I did like the book McGrowl better. I liked the ending and what led up to the ending. I think Both books are good and I recommend them to anyone who loves good stories.
