The Dragonlings and the Magic Four-Leaf Clover: A Dragonlings of Valdier Short S.E. Smith

Over 153 pages of delightful adventure and laughs!

A little magic can go a long way....

A campfire tale while on a camp-out with their dads has the dragonlings and their besties enchanted with a mythical kingdom called Glitter, home of the magical and mischievous Great King Leprechaun and the Little People. When the younglings discover their dads have disappeared, they are certain King Leprechaun is responsible. Armed with a magic four-leaf clover, the dragonlings and their besties will do anything to save their fathers, including tricking the King by using their golden symbiots--because everyone knows a Leprechaun can't resist gold!

Another great story with the dragonlings, Roam and Alice. This time Leo, Hope and Morah get to have some fun with their older friends/cousins. I adore these short stories with these adorable children. It is so fun watching them grow up and get an idea of future true mate pairings for some of them. Even though I am really looking forward to getting my hands on an adult Phoenix's story, I don't want these short stories to stop.

I really love the Dragonlings adventures. This adventure includes all the usual suspects with the addition of the newest babies. Princess Morah and Leo were hilarious. Interesting world Ms. Smith created for them this time. I did find myself craving more excitement, but all in all, it was enjoyable.

Ellena deLeon says

Oh My Goodness, this story is about secrets and fairytales that come true!

WOW, I was absolutely delighted, enchanted and endlessly entertained by the twists and turns in this uniquely written campfire story that was granted as a wish that turned into an awesome adventure!

Love Those Little Ones

Another great Dragonlings book, with a hint of a new story!? Mrs. Smith knows how to write in a way that lets you hear the dragonlings little voices. And boy are they cute. Look forward to watching these little ones become teenagers?

Be Prepared to Smile

I love reading about the adventures the young ones get into. While their big bad daddies search for the younglings, the young ones are searching for their fathers. I loved where the mischievous goddesses have sent them on their magical journey. Off to find the Leprechaun king. Great story.

Short but tooth achingly sweet

Another short story from the dragonlings tying together earlier stories and revisiting previous characters. It is so sweet seeing the dragonlings and their friends developing and growing through these short stories. It was satisfying glimpsing a snapshot of development from previous storylines too with Tia and Tamblin. It also looks like Arosa may be in for a surprise which, I am sure, readers of the series will agree has most definitely been earned.

A sweet short read which will leave you smiling.

Cute story but too short!

SHAMROCKS & SHENANIGANS GALORE!!!

Title: The Dragonlings and the Magic Four-Leaf Clover

Series: Dragonlings of Valdier

Author: S.E. Smith

Designation: Short Novella, Can Be Read As Standalone, No Cliffhanger

My Rating: Five Magical Stars**

 The Dragonlings of Valdier is a spinoff subseries of The Dragon Lords of Valdier and, though, any of the stories in either series can be read as a standalone, I highly recommend reading both series to enrich your experience. The author includes a character listing along with a brief description of the Valdier series and world in the front of the book for any readers who may not already be familiar with her Valdier, Curizan, and Sarafin Series. The Dragonlings and the Magic Four-Leaf Clover story ended at the 50% location on my Kindle, so the story is approximately 85 pages, but the author has also included several bonus samples of her other work in the last half of the book.

I love, love, love the dragonlings! The dragonlings and friends are back as S.E. Smith once again charms her fans with another enthralling and imaginative Dragonlings of Valdier short story celebrating Saint Patrick's Day. In this delightfully entertaining tale, our precocious little mischief makers find themselves on yet another magical adventure when a wish goes awry and a magical shamrock sends them scrambling to save the day after their fathers disappear during an overnight camping trip, leaving them all alone in the forest. Of course, goddesses Arilla and Arosa are also up to their usual mischief by aiding and abetting our little troublemakers, causing even more headaches for the clueless dads. But never fear, not even a quest to find the King of the Leprechauns and the Kingdom of Glitter will prevent our little heroes and heroines from making new friends!

Did I like this story? No, I loved it! Will I read this author again? Absolutely! Would I recommend this book? You bet, and I am, for children as well as adults. I'm a huge fan of Smith's work and never miss a release from either of The Valdier, Curizan, or Sarafin Series. And finally, was I entertained? Completely! Fabulous lighthearted entertainment guaranteed to make you smile!

Another cute dragonlings story.

The fathers of the dragonlings and their friends decide to go on a camping trip with the children. Once the campsite is setup for the night and they have all eaten they gather around the camp fire and Paul tells them a story. Once again the two goddesses, Arilla and Arosa, decide to take a hand when Hope wishes that she could visit the land of the leprechauns. Once again chaos reigns, everyone has an adventure and they are all happy to get home again!

Wonderful short sweet story with Goddesses making wishes come true.

On a father and children camping weekend, the two Goddesses Arosa and Arilla cause some fun.

Paul tells a campfire tale story of Leprechauns and Magic Four Leaf Clovers. The two young Goddesses listen as well and decide it would be fun to get involved by granting Morah a wish.

When the morning comes everything has changed and the next adventure begins.

Loved that we go back to the moon and visit Tamblin, Tia and the others again.

A nice little surprise in regards to Arosa.

Though not as laugh out loud as previous dragonling books, this was still humorous and a fun read.

Cheryl says

We are off on a camping trip with the dads and babies ! After the campfire story and while everyone else is sleeping Morah wakes to speak with the Goddess and makes a simple wish . From there on this story picks up and the adventures that happen !! I do have to say that Leo made me laugh with his hunger problems lol !! The dads wake to find themselves in a world where they are the small hunted ones ! I loved this story !! I so can not wait for more Dragonlings !!

FUN STORIES

Thank You, Ms. Smith. I love all your books but, the Dragonling stories have turned into a wonderful Reading Time with Grandma. I may have to edit the story a little according to what age I'm reading to but the essence of how you wrote it is all there. I hope these stories continue on. Thank You for making my reading times fun.

Jannie Cv says

Who knew storytelling could be so dangerous?

Inspired by Paul's campfire tale, Morah's wish to see a Leprechaun is granted by an impish young goddess.

Oh, my! The things that happen now! These precocious, wildly talented younglings are at it again!

I'm still laughing at Leo and his proclivity for sampling tasty tidbits - anything goes! It's a quick story, packed with fun. I love these insights into this diverse group of friends and their growing children. They have such fine adventures!

Even.

Even though the stories are short, and usually I'm not into short stories I do love the dragonlings books I get great enjoyment out of them I laugh my head off they are such a joy to read. but then most all your stories are a wonderful joy to read..so I will forgive the short stories on the dragonlings..thank so much for the great laughter....keep up the great story telling..and thanks so much....

The Dragonlings and the Magic Four - Leaf Clover

Another wonderful holiday story with the dragonlings. What they don't get into. It's great to catch up with all the characters from the series.
