THE HERMIT

He was the last person I expected to find out here.

But when the former sports legend suffered an unimaginable tragedy, he retreated to a place where he thought the world couldn't touch him.

Now he says he has no intention of ever loving anything or anyone again.

I understand.

I'm sure as hell not searching for love either.

Why desire something when it's only ever been taken from you?

But I know something else too.

I know there are other desires that can be met without the kind of pain that comes with love.

And I want to feel every single one of them with him..
