Great tipps, but a lot of uninteresting categories. Now I just need the time to get my hands and all those and read em

William Schram says

The author is a book critic, or so I assume and wrote about a number of books that one should read. Covers every imaginable topic and covers dozens of authors in different genres. So it is sort of like Goodreads, only stuck in a particular time. I did get some good suggestions from this book, but there are some suggestions that didn't interest me, so I skipped them. These would be the suggestions on cookbooks and some others like it.

Gina Andrews says

Great book for finding new books to read. Wide variety of categories to choose from, both fiction and nonfiction. Has some of the standard books that always make the lists plus others you might not have heard of before. The descriptions for each book are brief but good.

Stephanie says

I love books about books, and what makes this one stand out is that it had many titles that I did not recognize. So many of these types of books have the same novels and non-fiction reads OVER and OVER, but this one was different. I will be buying this one to keep on the shelf.

Christine says

Even though slightly dated, this book provided some really good suggestions!
