Miles Audra Cole , K.B. Winters

One year, no drama, no heartbreak, and definitely no sex.

When Army Ranger Miles Warren starts making future plans outside of his military career, marriage isn't even on the list. However, his nit-picky parents don't leave that decision up to him. If he wants access to his parent's fortune—his inheritance—he has to play by their rules. One-Night-Warren has to trade in his playboy status if he wants to build his dream business and break free from his parent's control once and for all.

Penelope “Penny” Laken is a firecracker with ambitions outside of the socialite circle she lives in. For as long as she can remember, her greatest passion was behind the lens of a camera. She's put the rest of her life on hold until she can finish her art book and launch a new career for herself. Penny has big dreams and two amazing friends to back her up. She doesn't want—or need—a man thank-you-very-much.

Miles and Penny meet at his parent's annual holiday gala, neither one is looking for anything more than a hot hook-up. Months later, their paths cross again, and Penny is shocked by what Miles needs next.

It's trust fund trouble—times two! Miles and Penny have to play nice if they're going to walk away with their futures secured and their hearts intact. Can they do it?

so freaking sweet.

I haven't read any prior book so this was the first time meeting Miles.

I absolutely loved this story. I love Penny, I REALLY loved Miles. I love how they shared a similar life and similar experience and realized they had that in common. I really loved that he really was supportive and took care of her especially when it came to her mom. they had chemistry right from the first meeting and from there the sexual tension built. how the hell do you marry a hot man in Hawaii with a smoking hot body who is awesome...and rich...buys you a ring from Tiffany...and you don't have sex with him on your wedding night? holy Moses.

I really loved everything about this. Im so glad I read this story!!!

Another great book by KB Winters that will have you captivated and forgetting the rest of the world while you read this one!!

Miles has to change his ways if he wants his inheritance once his parents pass on. Easy right? Not if you are the playboy that Miles is. He can do this right? Why do parents have to treat you like a child when you are an adult? But, it's abide by their rules or get nothing.

And then there's Penny. Can she help him? Can they help each other?

LOVED this book! KB Winters is an amazing author when she writes alone and it's always a treat when she writes with another author that I haven't read anything by them!

PSUDST says

Romantic novellas can be tricky in that there's less time to flesh out characters and to bring a happy ending around in a way that makes sense to the reader. "Miles" could have accomplished all of these things but for...

While I enjoyed the characters and the supporting cast of friends, there was no good reason really why the two should have fallen in love as quickly as they did. There was very little interaction between them and what little there was was sexual attraction. I simply didn't buy that the characters had fallen in love when they declared it to each other.

I downloaded the box set of this and two other Army Wives novellas in the series and should have done some research because Miles' story was the last one, but it's the first to appear in the box set. Not realising this, I was a bit thrown by the fact that his friends were already married but that their stories were also included in the set. Reading the other two stories in this set isn't a priority but it's good to know that they're there if I find myself without something to read (unlikely).

This was a modern marriage of convenience story. Miles was a great guy but his quick change from "one night Warren" to devoted husband was pretty fast. Penny was a great h and I loved her spirit and humor. They made a cute couple but I was a little turned off by the predictable business arrangement turned true love plot. I've just read it too many times already.

High society parents are the poop. Shoot I kind of felt sorry for Miles and Penny but understood his lifestyle and ways now. Deep down he was a romantic and after five months and him being calm it all came together.

I loved his honesty and the way he pushed to get answers when he knew something was wrong but more than anything I loved the way he stood up for her. That was heart and solidified that she had his.

This series is addictive and I am happy the the club has formed and Thanksgiving just got a little bigger, (table wise).

Darcy says

I was stunned to see how Miles family treated him. With family like that who needs enemies. I liked the plan that Miles came up with, even if it was predictable. I liked that Penny went along with things, even as she has some reservations. The two of them had the same background, but despised it, so understood things. With their chemistry you knew things were going to explode, just didn't expect it to happen when it did. I was glad both were getting away from the families, because if they were able to just be together they have a real chance.

The close..... For now

I love how this series played out..... The only thing I didn't like about this collection was that book 3 was first in the series, so I knew about the first 2 HEA's before I read their stories.

Individually, all three were strong stories with well developed plots and characters. My favourite story was book 1 Lucas and Isla's story but my favourite ranger was Colton.

Book 1 Lucas and Isla was funny and emotional in the best way.

Book 2 Colton and Karena was absolutely adorable. From how they met on a parenting blog, to him helping her with the Lucy drama..... He was such a softy but alpha male when he needed to be!

Book 3 Miles and Penny's story was a great way to close out the series.

Add the Novella epilogue to answer any final questions while giving a teaser for the future Army Wives books was GENIUS!

I ant wait to see what comes next in the series

Not being a fan of rich kid novels and the such I ventured into this one for other reasons. This is also the first time in reading this author for me. I do so like military related romance with this really catching my eye because my daughter is a army wife. You are introduced in this one Miles whom I soon realize this is the third one in this series but that is ok can follow along. He sure has some hum dinger of parents also. They have laid on him a ultimatum that is a whooper. While stewing on this he meets up with Penny whom is at the social event of his parents with her mother. With their short conversation they hit it off. Penny also has some issues with a parent and being they are both trust fund kids certain things are expected of them. I am so glad they both are not like the parents or finish this book I would not have but now it has me wondering just how special are these two to have broken away from the expected. They each have their own goals but since there is a certain bit of attraction to each other when something crazy is proposed it really gets a shaking. They both have character with the building attraction will tear them down but it will also build into something way better. His and her friends are mentioned and play parts in this but it is mainly a fast past romance that focuses on them.

Oh Miles..... How the mighty have fallen!!

Miles has been a sort of... Obsession since I've read Colton! So it's safe to say that Audra and KB has some serious expectations from me. But being the epic literary goddesses that they are.... They just blew up the expectations and left me panting and more in love with Miles!! That being said....

Miles and Penny are freakin awesome!! They are a great... Non-ordinary couple. I felt that the authors did a great job in really really letting me get a chance to know just who Miles was. With every eyeroll he had, I felt myself rolling my eyes too because Miles is very much my literary husband. Penny is a great leading lady. But, I really just love how the authors came through in their makin sure the reader understood her as well. I really felt for Penny. While she may have it all, the insecurities caused by the idiot in this story... Are real and can be easily identified by anyone reading this story.

Now, HOLY HOTNESS!!! I'm jealous of Penny that she got to break off a piece of the sexy Miles. The sexual tension is so darn heavy that I was about to combust!! These two have a chemistry that's so off the charts. And I loved it!! But I especially love the pull of the emotions that each of them have.

The overall plot of this story is one that left me happy and satiated. Nothing over the top and the emotions that the story evokes in the reader are going to make this a top read for anyone who reads it. So, HOOAH to the authors in what is my favorite read of this series!! #MilesIsMine
