Murdered by Country Music Dianne Harman

What part did mollies and Fireball whiskey play in a murder at a country music festival held outside of Palm Springs, California? Why was the celebrity chef, Jacques Rushon, owner of the French Food Obsession food truck murdered? The suspects at the top of the sheriff's list are Marty Morgan's friends John, the owner of The Red Pony food truck, and his assistant, Max.

Or was it the ex-wife who was owed back child support? Food truck competitors John and Max? The owner of the White Stallion Ranch where the music festival was held? Jacques' drug dealer? Jacques' partner in the food truck, Ned? Or Ned's wife, Rita? In order to save her own life, Marty has to solve the murder mystery. Fortunately, she has a little help from Jeff, her police detective fiance.

This fast-paced cozy mystery gives the reader a behind the scenes look at music festivals and food trucks. As always, there's lots of food, recipes, and a black Labrador retriever who refuses to give up his pink booties!

I have been on a Dianne Harman reading binge lately. I have read 4 books this week. I stumbled upon her as an author awhile ago and read a few books. I loved them and am still reading so I can get caught up in all series. I am so glad I found her. She has not disappointed even once. Every book has been enjoyable and some like this one above and beyond. Thank you for writing such great books

I have read the previous two books in the series. This one is just as good and better. This time her neighbor and friend, the "truck" cook and assistant are charged with a fellow cook's murder. Of course the main character knows her friend is innocent and will do whatever she can to find the real murderer. As usual, there's lots of good eating, intrigue and action. You don't know who the murderer is til the end. I have book #4 on my nightstand!

I gave this book this rating because I thought it deserved it. I enjoyed reading it just as much as any of the other books she writes. I would recommend it to anyone.

This one almost got 3 stars for sticking to a single POV and skipping the POVs of everyone that hated the victim, but right at the end the author lost it and switched to the killers POV.

Since I don't normally write reviews unless I have something specific to say, here's the break down of how I rate my books...

1 star... This book was bad, so bad I may have given up and skipped to the end. I will avoid this author like the plague in the future.

2 stars... This book was not very good, and I won't be reading any more from the author.

3 stars... This book was ok, but I won't go out of my way to read more, But if I find another book by the author for under a dollar I'd pick it up.

4 stars... I really enjoyed this book and will definitely be on the look out to pick up more from the series/author.

5 stars... I loved this book! It has earned a permanent home in my collection and I'll be picking up the rest of the series and other books from the author ASAP.

It was the best of times and the worst of times--from approx 1969 - 1972. I was around 19 or 20 when Woodstock happened and my friend and I and our then boyfriends had tickets to Woodstock. Our boyfriends made it there but since both us girls had to work that day--we were going to leave from my Mom's apartment later in the day. My Mom had other ideas--she, it seemed had been listening to the traffic reports--back ups--people camped at the sides of roads--so she did what she had to do, I guess--she literally paid us off NOT to go. She sent us off (with my dog) to go stay at our boyfriends apartment in Boston. By now we were hearing what a mess it was up there--MUDDY, wet, not enough to eat or drink--and of course since it was the time of hippies, free love etc not to mention drugs (pot, LSD) (non of which either my friend or I were into)--we were resigned. Then we got that knock on the door--another friend come to tell us that a guy our boyfriends knew hung himself in jail. Kind of put a damper on things--but that was when even being caught with 1 joint could land you a life sentence. Like I said--it was the best of times and the worst of times. I did manage to go to a couple of other outdoor concerts--but truthfully I much prefer going to an INDOOR venue where there is ample water, food and NO MUD!!!

The outdoor concert depicted in this novel is held in the desert (NO MUD) at someone's ranch. No one was allowed to do or bring in drugs and the owner of the property really did try to make sure that didn't happen. And there were a lot of food trucks with lots of differing foods who were invited to be vendors and were set up in one specific area. Well one of the vendors was The Red Pony Food Truck and another was French Food Obsession food truck. Now these guys were fierce competitors--not friends at all! Jacques is murdered and the blame seems to be heading straight to John and his assistant Max. They live at the compound shared by 4 friends and the black lab who refuses to leave the compound without his pink booties! That ground is much too hot for those sensitive paws and for reduced rates always cook all their meals.

There are several suspects and Marty--art appraiser extraordinaire and also lives at the compound--is bound and determined to find the real killer! Her police detective fiance does help a bit as does her psychic sister. So who is the killer--not who you will suspect and that's all I'm going to say. Lot's of good food in this one--and the recipes are at the end of the book!

Chili and honey cornbread are the best

I'm going to make them tomorrow to serve to some friends and my husband for his birthday.

Do you have a book where all the recipes are published? I have been copying them from the screen of my tablet. It doesn't make a really clear copy.

Really Great!

I love a good cozy mystery, a handsome hero and a strong woman who solves the mystery. Duke, the black male lab, in his pink booties certainly adds to the books charm. This is a good one.
