The Maverick's Bride Catherine Palmer

Her faith takes her across the world and into the path of a most extraordinary man. Freshly arrived in East Africa, Emma Pickering is instantly drawn to Adam King. The rugged cowboy is as compelling as he is mysterious. And if he'll agree to a marriage of convenience, it would solve both their problems. Emma could secure her inheritance—and with it, her chance to find her sister. Adam could gain the funds needed to carve his ranch out of the savanna. Yet their match is anything but "convenient" when Emma's fears gain hold, and malicious whispers threaten to tear the couple apart. Only their love and shared faith can save their life together.

I really liked this one. I'm a big Catherine Palmer fan. I loved the setting in Africa. She totally describes the bush country and the struggles the people of Africa had to deal with were great. I wouldn't want to be where Lions could be a danger, but at the same time she makes it appealing. The fact that the author has lived there also helps, since you know what she's talking about. She kinda gives you some mystery element when the sister goes missing. Emma is so prim and proper in the beginning to some extent. But you can see her independence rise when it comes to nursing. Sad about her family life, but it only made her into who she was. Adam...hahaha! I love how she introduced him into the story. Classic! The description of the Rancher who just so happens to be from Texas! My home state. :D Catherine gets down every detail, even to describing his cowboy hat, since Emma has never seen one because she's a proper English lady. His past seemed to make him into who he was too and in the end he realized the choices he made hurt those he loved the most and realizes he needs to make admends to his family he hasn't seen in forever. The struggles that Emma and Adam have to overcome make them stronger in the end even though lies try to tear them apart. Emma is so set in her doing her call for God that I think she loses sight of what God really has in store for her and is willing to listen to the lies that are presented to her. She fails to realize that Adam's actions speak louder than the rumors. She could totally make series with it with all the characters she introduced. That would be interesting.

The writing of this author was amazing. I was indeed surprised by her expert story and how she portrayed the characters. Emma was a bit of a baby in faith at the beginning, but by allowing herself to listen, she learned so much and matured. Being cautious was a good thing. Her judgement was immature, but the caution gave her time to see the truth. I recommend this book to any Christian girl or woman. The only thing that I didn't care for at all was this: Even though it was a Historical, the characters she stole from "Out of Africa" (one of my favorites) seemed to take away from her otherwise "individuality".

I really wanted to like this book, and I did like the storyline itself. But I got very tired of interrupted and unfinished conversations and scenes. It was beyond frustrating to read, and then the story just ended. But like I said, it was a good storyline overall, and I did enjoy some of the characters.

Whisked away! I was whisked away just as Emma was with every page. I really enjoyed this book as Adam brings us on the journey of a lifetime:) Some of the plotline was a bit overzealous, but all-in-all, I really liked it.

This was a very enchanting novel. I truly appreciated the historical context. It was rich with historical insight and a darling plot. The characters were also very memorable. Unlike some recent romantic novels I've read, this one also contained unique little surprises that were definitely good to read!! I recommend this to anyone up for light adventure, a little suspense, and of course, romance!

This was a pretty good book. It was set in Africa, but I felt several things that happened where a bit hard to believe. Still, there's so great suspense, adventure, and a heart-tugging romance.
