This was a great end to a multi-comic epic. The writing by Katie Cook is fantastic and the ponies do not disappoint. There are fun fight scenes and the dialogue between evil queen chrysalis and the cutie mark crusaders is hilarious. A great companion series to the show.

I just loved that style of art, and story, I hope next series continues to go alongside that track. Otherwise story could be better, but, still it was very entertaining. Parody of Indiana Jones made me laugh.

This was a great series! I will definitely read any other My Little Pony comics in the future. Who knew they would be this much fun!?

The ending did leave me a little confused, but I think it was meant that way and open to interpretation.

[ was when the queen gave twilight the proposition of joining her and she would let her friends go. She honestly should have just let her go cause Twilight had already agreed to do it. And great, now I want to find fanfiction of Twilight actually having no choice, but to stay with her..

A great conclusion to the Queen Chrysalis arc.

The storming of the castle was great fun, and I loved seeing the character of Chrysalis expanded on in the finale. I also loved seeing what Spike was up to during this time (which gets expanded on even more in the short comic at the end).

Really, this whole arc was great, for all of the reasons I've mentioned in my reviews of the previous issues.

My one complaint about this issue was during the climatic moment. Not to get too spoilery, but one moment it was 'no, I won't do that!' and the next moment it was "okay, I will". There was no reason for the change that I could see...

Other than that, though, I loved it.

Though, I kind of wish I had been able to follow Spike around a little more.
