Sandra Strange says

cute story about a duck who wears a Santa hat, resulting in the other animals giving him their Christmas lists--with a warm ending

Rachael Fluke says

Santa duck is a darling story about a duck who dresses up as Santa and is bombarded by many of his friends with Christmas lists. Nicholas the duck feels overwhelmed until him and Santa meet up on Christmas Eve. He gives Santa the lists of all his friends and he is very thankful for what Nicholas the duck has done to help. This is a great book to show the act of giving and putting others before yourself around the holiday season. I recommend this book for 2-4 grade.

Christine says

Duck receives a Santa hat and coat, which he happily puts on. When everyone keeps stopping him and telling him what they want for Christmas, it takes him a while to figure out why and he becomes annoyed. Cute story about helping others.

Pam says

A humorous wonderful story about the true meaning of Christmas!

Mary says

Nicholas the duck is given a Santa suit and suddenly everyone sees him as Santa Duck. He is bombarded by animals giving him their Christmas lists; for instance, the turtle wants a really fast racing car while the rabbit wants a giant carrot cake "the size of a football field." Observant readers will appreciate the last page where all the animals are enjoying their gifts. Don't be surprised to hear young listeners singing "Jingle quack, jingle quack, Jingle all the quack." A humorous Christmas story with a sweet message.

A fun read aloud.

This is a cute, fun little story about a duck who inadvertently becomes "Santa" for awhile. The humor reminds me a bit of Mo Willems with amusing little asides and kooky but lovable animal characters. I also love that the "spirit of giving" is alive in this book--but so is the joy of receiving! It's all well and good for children to learn that the best part of Christmas is sharing love and abundance--but, come on, when I was a kid I was TOTALLY the MOST excited to open MY presents! I appreciate that Milgrim remembers this about childhood ;-)

This one is a lot of fun. It's on the longer side with around 4-5 lines per page, but if you really inhabit the duck's character, it can easily hold little one's attentions.

Molly Cluff (Library!) says

Pretty cute--Duck puts on a santa hat and everyone thinks he's the real Santa. He ends up relaying all of their lists to the real Santa. This would probably work for a preschool storytime
