Tasha says

Cute guy turns out to be on the baddies side and a bad influence, not a shocker!

Amber says

In this issue we see Kamala once again with an old friend who seems a little too good to be true. Turns out he is. After getting Kamala to sneak out at night and then lying to her about where he's driving her we see more of what is really going on. It seems a new enemy may have showed up on the playing field and he's got other Inhumans working with him.

Also there's a very nice scene between Bruno and Amir about culture and relationships. I feel bad for Bruno but I also have to say that the scene was handled very well.

A great issue and I can't wait to see where this story arc leads.

lauren ? (wonderless reviews) says

I knew that guy was gonna be an ass. I was hoping for Kamala's sake that my instincts was wrong bc girl deserves a break. Unfortunately not :((Also the ending!!! I need the next issue now!!!

Sarah Lu says

Sadly, some of the stuff that I was hoping wouldn't come true did in this comic. Hoping that they don't go down through the land of tropes with it. I was really hoping that Kamran's introduction wasn't going to head this way, but it looks like it will. Other than that, good comic. It is the start of Kamala's new adventure and we shall what happens next with the Inhumans that do not want anything to do with Medusa in the Magneto-reminiscent group.

Kristin says

Somewhere Wolverine is coming back to life to rally all his former teenage girl mentees while Queen Medusa is rallying her Attilan citizens to teach this fool a lesson about breaking Kamala's heart.

The FountainPenDiva, Old school geek chick and lover of teddy bears says

Yesterday was a killer day. Brand new Star Wars trailer, new Ms. Marvel and more stories from the Fated Blades series.

So, Kamala's got a crush who just happens to be the kind of young man her traditionalist family approves of...or is he? I feel really bad for her best friend and sidekick Bruno, who also has feelings for Kamala. The conversation between Bruno and Kamala's brother was poignant but also true to life (even if I think Bruno is the better man and just as capable of being understanding of the importance of immigrant culture).

Razan Ghuraibi says

Of course that's how it ends. Not so hard to predict.

Damon says

Growing up is difficult, and finding people to trust makes up 90% of the growing pains.

Becky says

Sigh. I saw some of this story coming and was hoping it wouldn't go this way. I adore Kamala and am always sorry to see her go through trials, although I continue to find her approach to them to be refreshing and delightful.

Ainhoa says

Me encanta que no se deje engañar... demasiado.

Ritz ? says

Well it's kinda disappointing that Kamran was shady but it was a distinct possibility. But, Kamala continues to be absolutely endearing and Bruno's scenes still prove to be well done. Such a fan of this series' writing. c: c: c:

Jeanet Alessandra says

ughh,assholeeeee.

Isa Lavinia says

THAT ASSHOLE >:O

Margaret says

I'm not a big fan of middle issues by themselves of a story arc: just get on with it! Or maybe I need to save up single issue comics when part of a series like this so I can enjoy them all at once. (5 seconds later: verdict, unlikely. I just like Ms. Marvel that much).

Still, a very good issue.

(Also, why did I say I'd review everything I read this year on Goodreads the same time I started getting into single issue comics? Poor life choice on my part? or the best? hard to say.)

Sarah says

Ahhhhh!!! So good!
