Cry of Eagles William W. Johnstone

THE GREATEST WESTERN WRITER OF THE 21ST CENTURY

No Time for Mercy

Falcon MacCallister roams the West, far from home, far from the memories of the peace and beauty of MacCallister's Valley. With a destiny as wide and unsure as the open range, he is a loner. But to those who know him, he is a legend . . .

In a small New Mexico town, two young gunslicks are looking for a reputation, eager for a kill, desperate for history to write their names in blood. In a split-second hook and draw, one of them will lie dead. And once again, Falcon MacCallister will be the most wanted man in the West. Now, from the Arizona border to the shadows of the Dragoon Mountains to the burning trail of Apache rage, he must fend off a ruthless posse that has sworn vengeance. Because a man like MacCallister knows: between the final prayer and the snap of the rope there's no time for mercy.

Jeff Dickison says

Just an awful book. Johnstone apparently enjoys writing about blood curdling violence for violence' sake. The story is not much, and in addition to the continuous violence contains almost every cliche ever written. Just nonsense. Not recommended!

Jim says

Another very good read. I am enjoying this series.

Timothy Boyd says

Another great western series by Johnstone. This one follows the adventures of a family for generations as they help build the American frontier. Recommended larry brashear says

Great!

Another fine tale by this fine author who was truly a master craftsman of his trade! I know when I start to read it will be a treat.

Josh Swisher says

Meh. Kinda interesting plot but very repetitive. The memory flashback interludes were abysmal and utterly boring having no connection the the main story to the point that I desperately wanted to fast fast-forward through them.
