I've decided to read The Secrets of Droon series entirely for Christmas since i've been feeling a bit nostalgic. I want to be able to live a bit of the magic of being a kid and what better to help than this incredible series. I know that this series is for young kids but i feel it will still be great after all these years. The fourth book introduces us to new characters as well as new places. As in the last book the action starts really fast and it continues that way. Something that I like about this series is how hints and gives the reader clues of things that will happen in the future and in later books. It gives the reader a chance to try to guess and wonder about what is coming. The plot again centers on the kids trying to stop Sparr from fulfilling his plans. But this time his plan is to steal diamonds instead of obtaining the Red Eye of Dawn. The author continues to give us variety and changes through every book.

Drune is a magical place and it has lots of adventures where you can imagine your self in. I love the 4th book and I hope other people read it too! I only have the fourth book and I bet the other books are fun too! I read this book about 5 times so I guess that's why I love it so much!

Fantasy for the younger generation! My two older kids started reading this in 1st grade and both have loved the series. I began reading it so that I had better perspective on the series. The first 3 books I didn't find very interesting, the books were too fast paced for me with too little detail (but probably perfect for younger kids), however this book finally seems to introduce a little more depth, and leaves a thread with which to weave the overarching story of the series. This is the first book in the series that I really felt compelled to finish.

Pretty good. I like this series and all the little characters. Fun adventure series.

Andrea says

My 5 yr old and I thoroughly enjoyed the first 4 books of this series, and look forward to reading the remaining books!

Simon enjoyed the first three books in this series on audiobook, and was excited to keep reading more together. This seems like a good fantasy series for younger children who aren't quite willing to delve into stories with more serious events, like Harry Potter.

Nicole Luiken says

Droon is a wonderfully inventive world. This time round our heroes visit the flying city of Ro which is only visible for one day per year and the Tower of Memory in which a magic Quill writes everything that's ever happened and sometimes the future.

All of a sudden, one of Neal's tennis shoes splits open at the toe revealing a brown claw-like foot. Then, the other shoe breaks, and another transformed foot sticks out. The curse that turned Neal into a bug while he was on the mysterious island has returned! Eric, Julie, and Neal rush to Eric's house. They climb down the magic stairs and right on board Lord Sparr's airship. When the evil wizard sees them, he puts them on an outside platform so he can fling them into space. The Lumpies rescue the trio before any harm can befall them. Princess Keeah believes that Ro, the City in the Clouds, holds the key to breaking Neal's insect curse. They've got to work fast because Ro will disappear soon and be invisible for another seven years.

Once again, I read it with JD. I need to find a better series for a 9-year-old boy.

This was a book that was more to my 9 year olds age group. If I were 9 maybe I would have been more interested in it. I do believe that my children will love it. It was way out of my interest zone. I did like the idea of the magical world and the characters in it.

Kristine Hansen says

Once again we're back in Droon, this time in a city that just won't stay put - it drifts along in the sky.

Of course the bad guys want to steal what the good guys have, so it's up to our adventurers to save the day.

Again, this is a fun adventure series with a fascinating world that the author has worked hard to construct. At the same time, I'm frustrated by the lack of detail and really wish we could spend more time exploring, and getting a bit deeper into the characterization. Every story feels like it should have been told with a lot more words, probably at a higher grade level.

Still it's fun to read, and if you have younger readers who love magical stories, this is a great series to start them on.

This is one of my favorites that I've read about. It takes place in the future because every year the cloud disappears and reappears in a new world or time. They went through a tower that had a magic pen that wrote everything on a brick about what's happening in each person's life, and it gets taller and taller as more lives appear and he accidentally reaches the future.

Neal gets turned into a bug again! Awesome. There's something more interesting about Lord Sparr in this book, it's like he's got a deeper hidden secret that's not being revealed to us yet. (At least, that's what I thought.) I think book 5 will be worth looking at, as I'm curious to see where the plot will go next. That book will probably be my last look at this series though, as these stories tend to be the same thing over again. :)
