Mathew says

A few good poems, but my favorite part of the entire book was the piece of litterature left inside the book - a high recommendation that unfortunately did not pan out. It reads, in beautiful handwritten script:

February 1, 1977

... for you Doug - for love and for the pleasure and the goodness, the rightness of our life together - and our lives apart . . .

I love you - there can be no elaboration on that point. The truth is simple. I hope that we can soon look at each other past the fear and without the spaces that fear causes . . .

There is so much, that for some reason, I can't now express - but there is joy being beside you . . . and I love you . . .

Olivia says

Open eye, open heart. Open guy, open art. All my thanks and gratitude to Mr. Ferlinghetti for some of the best poems I've ever crossed paths with.
