I received this book from Member giveaway group.

The cover for the book gave me an impression its going to be a fairy tale rather than young adult short novel. This is a short fantasy story about witches and love story with ups and downs and drama in the middle. Erika is one from four High Witches and her life has always been surrounded by her family, shes seventeen and wishes to have boyfriend as any regular girl in the world, but she have figured long time ago that there is no actual way how she will meet someone from her community, nothing have happened till now. Its about to change when she notices a guy staring at her opposite her house. Thanks to Julia, she has someone who puts her idea serious and pushes her to think it could be real with the guy whom she spot across the road..of course, the love develops between her and him..

I give the book one and a half stars, but I cant give more as I found the story dialog too sweet at the times and silly.

I won this ARC and agreed to give it an honest review and now am a big fan of Ms. Hanna! Gareth and his father moved because his dad couldn't work any more due to his illness, and he had agreed with the blonde hair man to trick a high witch so that he could turn her and have her do his bidding in return for his father being permanently cured. He had already lost his mom and had no clue what to do if his only parent died...

Erica was a young high witch living with at home and helping her family. She knew her mom had hopes that she would lead their coven one day and she was no where near that yet. When she sees a tall boy with dark hair and eyes, she gets a tingle down in her belly then looks away, but her friend encourages her to take a chance and go find him.

I won this book from a booklikes giveaway. The beginning was a little overwhelming with the introduction of so many characters and their powers. But once it got to the main story line I really enjoyed the book. It's a cute story of Erica and Gareth's young love mixed in with a little darkness of an enemy that is evil. I really connected with the Mother trying to protect her daughter. I loved how the power and bond of a family can defeat any enemy. It is a great read.

I received this book in exchange for an honest review. I actually would have given this 5 stars but it was short. I really enjoyed the book and fun. It was cute to watch a budding romance instead of the quick 2 day love for ever stories. This one is one of young love and love of family and friends conquering all. Great book I can't wait to see what happens next.

When both Julia and Erica receive prophetic dream about a mystery man proclaiming Erica failed her test. Erica is frightened by the dream and doesn't feel she can share it with her mother. Gareth tells Erica he can't see her any more which leaves Erica in tears wondering what she did wrong. Can Gareth ever explain his reasons? What will Erica do now? A very good short story from a new to me author. The characters and story were raw, real, down to earth, compelling, and interesting too. I would definitely read more of this author's work in the future.

Rating:5/5

As you might have seen on my blog, this isn't the first book by author Mona Hanna that I've read. I was really happy to see that the High Witch series had a spin off since I really liked reading those books.

This new series is called Generations and starts with the first book, High Witch Next Generation. It is a pretty short book but I still enjoyed it very much, the lovely and magical writing style of the author making you want to read more and more.

This book was a really cosy reading, really good to the heart and soul. I found it relaxing and didn't want to finish it on the first day.

Some of the characters of this book will be familiar to those who have read the High Witch series but we still get to meet new characters that are really important to the plot.

The action follows Erica, the daughter of Ariel who is one of the High Witches of the world. As her mother, Erica is also a High Witch, a very powerful and special kind of witch. While having a high witch reunion with Hallie (another high witch) and her family, Erica's attention is caught by a strange boy that looks at her.

The boy, named Gareth, will play a very important role in this book, a romance story revealing even since the beginning of the story. But will the feelings of love be strong enough to overcome some unexpected complications?

I really liked that, although it is a short book, it has everything included: romance, magic, friendship, family, tough situations, good and bad characters. The action is a little fast paced, fact that helped the action to evolve enough. I felt that the ending of the book will be a cliffhanger but Hanna had the talent to include everything that I wanted to find out in the last chapters.

I am really curious what the new couple Erica - Gareth will go through in the next books since this was just the beginning of everything!

I think that this is a really wonderful book for those who like short romantic books that include fantasy elements and is centered on family and friends. I also encountered a few funny moments that made me giggle and enjoy myself.

I really love small books since I can read them fast without and I can also carry them in my bag everywhere I go (every reader's dream)!!

I want to thank the author for sending me a copy of her book in exchange for my honest review. I really loved her books and was happy to read another one! :-)

Quotes:

*" «What in the world were you thinking about? You looked all dreamy and weird.»
Erica gritted her teeth. Sometimes Caeden was too much. «I'm allowed to think. You might want to try it sometime.»
James burst out laughing. «Him? Not likely.»" (p.7)*

"Erica sighed, more upset over Julia's words than anything else. Get married! That was years away. Suddenly an innocent meeting with someone she found attractive was becoming so much more, only making her more anxious. She hoped tomorrow would go alright. There was one thing for sure. She hoped Julia would keep her mouth shut, because the last thing Erica wanted was for anyone else to find out about this." (p.15)

"«You're perfect,» he whispered.

Erica smiled at him. She leaned in to kiss him again.

He abruptly stood before he gave in and lost himself to her. «I have to go. I can't tell you why, but I can never see you again. You're perfect, Erica, and I adore you. Always remember that.

Always remember that I adore you.»

Then he turned and left." (p.44)

It's probably because I didn't read the original series, but I couldn't really get into this short story. While, of course, all characters were new to me and I had some trouble understanding the magic in this world, and that's completely my own mistake, I also felt the story was lacking something.

There may be more to Erica's first love than she at first believes.

I wanted to like it, I really did. But there was too much exposition for my liking right from the beginning. Perhaps it would have made more sense had I read the other series as well and perhaps it fits there better, I don't know. Some of the characters seemed to have interesting backstories though that were not explored in this short novel. It might also just be me, but I was a little bit disappointed by it and had expected more from it.

High Witch Next Generation is the first novella in the Generations series which is a spin-off series of the High Witch series.

I won a copy of this book in a Booklikes giveaway!
