A Fistful of Love: A Domestic Violence Anthology Dominique Thomas , Mz. Lady P , Lucinda John , Destiny Raysor

Jess had always been the good girl. Church, school then a little more church was her life. She wasn't the girl to get asked on dates or even have a lot of friends. She mainly kept to herself until she was noticed by the one guy she had been dreaming about since she hit puberty.

Deon was a force that Jess had no choice but to allow to come in and sweep her away. He was too charming, too handsome, and too tempting. He didn't have rules and he didn't let Jess' young age stop him from getting what he wanted, which was her.

Jess fought him off for as long as she could but finally gave in. Her life seemed to change overnight. She became confident. She was able to get the clothes that she wanted and be the girl that other guys liked and females wanted to befriend. Deon was her king and she just wanted to make him happy.

She went against her parents' wishes and everything she believed in to be with him and she would have taken on the world for him if she had to. He gave her everything she ever wanted and she found herself so wrapped up in him that she could see nothing else. Her fairytale soon turned into a nightmare once she learned she wasn't the only girl he was loving. Next were the fights and the drama. Trying to leave Deon became a war that she wasn't prepared to fight.

What do you do when someone you love so much hurts you? How can you leave them when you can't even go a day without them? Love is many things but it should never hurt. For Jessenia her life was nice until it wasn't. She fell in love with a man that really didn't love her at all and the battle to get back to herself wasn't going to be an easy one. He said he loved her and she believed him. His type of love was pain most of the time and she started to bleed his love right out of her until one day she noticed the love was gone.

To leave Deon, Jess has to find herself and find her strength. Will she succeed or will she forever be wrapped up in a man that really loves no one but himself?

Heart of Stone by Mz. Lady P

Heart of Stone is a short story that digs into the mind frame of Stone Williams. A heartless, ruthless, and abusive womanizer.

K'Yonnah Kyles is his much younger girlfriend who thought she had met her Knight in Shining Armor, but in reality she was dancing with the devil and sleeping with the enemy.

Not being able to take it anymore, K'Yonnah decides to do what's best for her. In the process, she'll find out secrets that Stone has been keeping from her.

She will have to come to grips and face the fact that Stone never had any good intentions for her or her heart. Will she be able to get out of his clutches or is it too late for her to save her life from the heartless nigga known as Stone.

Love Don't Have to Hurt by Lucinda John

Aimee's dreams of a professional dancer had to be placed on hold when her father died of cancer. Living paycheck to paycheck, Aimee works to help her mother pay off her debts, take care of her brother, and attend a few classes at a community college. When Aimee's best friend, Shanice presents her with the idea of dancing at a strip club for extra money, she meets Lucas.

A punch, slap, and a few kicks is how Aimee can explain her abusive relationship with Lucas. The guy that is suppose to be her safe haven, is the one that is causing her the most pain; physically and emotionally.

Aimee feels obligated to stay with Lucas because of how he changed her and her family's lives, but when things turn fatal, will Aimee learns that love is not suppose to hurt? Or will it be too late?

Good Read very informative

Thanks a lot for these books. They are so true, we as women forget are worth. We have to remember that Love really does not hurt. I'm speaking from experience myself being young and marrying for all the wrong reasons but when the abuse started I knew that is was not healthy and I got out. Thanking God always for giving me the knowledge to really know my WORTH... Thanks again !!

Domestic Violence the unspoken

These stories are disturbing painful but true. There's someone being abused every nine seconds facts. Love should never hurt or kill. If you know someone in this situation don't judge you are probably their only refuge. If they are ready for help. Help them to get it.

Maya Gibson says

Great Stories

These authors put their heart in these stories. Domestic violence is real and shouldn't be taken lightly. Each story gives you an emotional insight on how domestic violence can be. These stories are very heartbreaking. I recommend this to anyone that likes to read. From the cover, to the title, to the stories: all was amazing. My favorite story was Fatal Attraction. The author brought tears to my eyes.

Abuse is abuse.....

I applaud these authors. They did such a wonderful job with each of these stories. These men were monsters. I felt for each of the women in these stories. Destiny Raysor you really made the tears flow after reading this. It's a eye opener if it's not physical abuse verbal is just as bad. You ladies get so much praise from for such an outstanding job.

MUST READ! TRUE LIFE'S LESSONS.

Although I read some stories separately I reread them and I have learned a lot from them. I myself have been loosing myself in a relationship once again. I am not physically abuses but I feel the mental radiating slowly. I am worthy of so much more and other queens and also kings should always feel this because abuse came come in all forms by any sex. PLEASE READ AND RECOMMEND.

Awesome!!

All the stories were good. The one that broke my heart the most was heart of stone story. I recommend this book for anybody to read. Domestic violence is real and needs to stop. I hope it's more to these stories, I really enjoyed them

The book was good

I was interested in the book. The third story was really good the one about Aimee. All of them were eye openers and definitely a page turner.

Tarayvia Rodriguez says

DNF! The first story I understood a bit because the main character was naive and immature and had issues at home or whatever. The second story however was all over the freaking place. One minute you want to leave and the next minute you are hurting because he is with someone else. You mean to tell me you suspect him of killing your baby but it hurts you that he's with someone else. B**** please! The author was over descriptive where it shouldn't have been and way over the top for shock purposes. This definitely didn't work for me.

tonnette l graves says*Seriously deep

Each story was deep and makes wonder about the good guy that makes u think u have a keeper. Sad for any abused women that feel they don't have a choice

---

Donta says*Heartfelt story

I wanted some more of the story with Jess and Deon. It is sad how men play on women being something they are not. I advise to look for the signs before it is to late.

Rita Ann says*Sad,Mad,Crying,And Maybe Happiness

Why love got to be hard. Now this I know. Been there. But not dead. It took me 10 years to leave. It's scary.I was young too. My mom help but so much. Back with him the leave again. So I did what I can do. Grew up be stronger and keep my kids safe. It over now. So now 25 years later my ex hate himself for what he did to me and his daughters. His life has been bad in out prison. Drugs. But I'm good. Anyone in love should happy not abusing with each other. Today world no one helps or get involved. So be safe for you and kids if anyone has some.
