Usurper Claire Farrell

It's been a year since Cara returned to the human realm with her daughter, and the fae have come knocking again. The game of kings is still being played, power is the ultimate prize, and Scarlet is an asset every court wishes to acquire.

As Sadler's next move is revealed to be his deadliest yet, and Scarlet's burgeoning powers begin to develop into something that can't be hidden, Cara realises that something more significant than a faery promise is needed to protect her family. It's time for her to build on what she started in Sadler's court.

But although the game is seductive, the price of winning might be too costly for a human to pay.

Yet another powerful read! I don't know if Cara is one of the most loyal and courageous people in this book or the stupidest...sighs. She's not really known for making wise decisions but I was thrilled with her decision on protecting the Darksiders. They are good people who were dealt a shitty hand. Her humanity is not a weakness, doesn't matter what Drake says. He's an asshole anyway, not the cool faery he started off as.

That's why I loved Zoe being around Cara, being her BFF gave her the ability and grit to be honest with Cara, especially when it came to Drake. He's a lost cause, was never meant to be with her. He married Sorcha and she's in love with him..despite being a complete and total twat. Cara needs to get over him fast and quick because he only cares about his stupid ass revenge...psycho.

I feel bad that Brendan felt betrayed by Cara, I know that even though she pulls away from him, she does feel some sort of love for him. Now is the time for her to focus on her people though so Breandan will have to wait, if anything ever comes out of that relationship.

Can't wait for 5 and 6

Out of this series so far, I found this book pointless and frankly, a waste of space. It achieved nothing until about the last 20 pages, raved on repetitively with the same old issues, and love remains unrequited. The character went from a strong singular purpose to a whiny pain in the arse.

I will go on to the next novel, but the story better ratchet up or I won't bother with the final book. From a high in the third book of despair vs comic relief whilst displaying a feminine strength and commitment for a cause with a distinct flair for creative deception, to a whiny piece of shit.

Excited to see what happens next

I knew that Cara would have to eventually deal with Sadler but she was definitely a bit too eager to do that. I am really concerned how she is blocking her feelings though. I love Scarlet and all of the other characters, especially Brendan. I just wish Cara would let go around him and trust him. He deserves a second chance. I don't blame her for trusting Drake though. Anyone who would marry someone they didn't love just to get power is not trustworthy. I just hope she fixes things with Brendan eventually. I am excited to see what she does with the Darkside.

It is a great book to read

Rip yourself in two for the people you care about and then be blamed for caring. Hardening herself in order to survive and protect those she loves most is what our main character does at the cost of her happiness again and again. Will she learn to cope with what she cannot control or learn to control what she cannot cope with....get this series and you'll find out.

The title says it all. What a great book!

Cara Kelly was getting on my nerves, but it paid off in the end of the book... Funny, how through the series I started liking the characters I didn't like before and vice versa. Good read, still... very good.

This series... oh my god what are you doing to me?! So amazing! Keep the books coming...

Maria says

Absolutely wonderful story. Full of excitement, danger, and the challenges a human mother will go to to protect her special daughter from power seeking fae. I don't know if I will be able to handle the suspense until the next book comes out!

I completely love Claire's Chaos series; and Usurper did not disappoint. ❤:-)❤
